DEPUTY AG TO BRIEF FULL SENATE ON COMEY FIRING

1 Deputy U.S. Attorney General Rod Rosenstein will conduct a classified briefing on Thursday for the full U.S. Senate on President Trump's firing of FBI Director James Comey, a spokesman for Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell said. The top Democrat in the Senate, Chuck Schumer, said in a statement he hoped senators would use the briefing to seek the "full truth" about Comey's dismissal, press Rosenstein "to make way" for a special prosecutor and ensure the administration preserves and makes public any recordings of his conversations with Comey. Critics have assailed Trump for firing Comey, who was leading the FBI's probe into alleged Russian meddling in the 2016 election and possible ties between Moscow and the Trump campaign. REUTERS

CYBERATTACKS SLOW BUT FEARS REMAIN

2 The global WannaCry "ransomware" cyberattack spread more slowly on Monday with no major infections reported, as attention shifted to investment and government policy implications of lax cyber security. The countries most affected by WannaCry were the same as Friday: Russia, Taiwan, Ukraine and India, Avast's data showed. The number of infections has fallen dramatically since Friday's peak when more than 9,000 computers were being hit per hour. By afternoon on the U.S. East Coast, new infections had fallen to the low hundreds of machines and continue to decline, Avast said. Earlier on Monday, Chinese traffic police and schools reported they had been targeted as the attack rolled into Asia for the new work week, but no there were no major disruptions. REUTERS

PLANE CRASHES IN NJ, KILLING TWO PILOTS

3 A small plane on Monday crashed on approach near Teterboro Airport in New Jersey, killing two pilots and sparking fires at two buildings that could be seen from New York, the Federal Aviation Administration and local police said. The FAA said the Learjet 35 departed Philadelphia and went down at 3:30 p.m. local time about a quarter mile from the airport in a residential area in northern New Jersey on approach to Runway One. Carlstadt Police Sergeant John Cleary told reporters the plane hit one building in an industrial or manufacturing area, skidded across a parking lot and broke apart. The flaming debris then set a second building on fire, he said. "The plane was seen listing to its left side, so obviously there was some sort of malfunction," Cleary said. REUTERS

5 THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW

BANKS REINFORCE CYBER DEFENSES

5 Banks have tightened their security systems and increased their surveillance after the global cyber assault on individuals and organizations worldwide. Capitalizing on spying tools believed to have been developed by the U.S. National Security Agency, the "ransomware" attack launched on Friday has infected tens of thousands of computers in 104 countries, putting the financial industry on high alert.

It halted the production lines of a European carmaker and delayed surgical operations in Britain's National Health Service. Many suspected infections were of Russian computers. Russia's central bank said it had recorded harmful software being sent en masse to Russian banks but that the attacks had been unsuccessful. Sberbank, the country's biggest lender, said viruses had not got into its systems. REUTERS

From prison to commencement speaker, Dorchester native turns his life around

After getting out of prison, Kyle Gathers wants to give back so he can help other Dorchester kids follow a better path in life.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
@kristindakota
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

Kyle Gathers never thought he would even get into college, but on Saturday — less than a year after getting out of prison — he was the commencement speaker for Benjamin Franklin Institute of Technology's 109th graduation ceremony.

Rather than giving a speech with the message that "we did it," the 31-year-old Dorchester native focused on how much there is still to do when it comes to guiding the young people in our lives.

"We all are an inspiration to someone younger than us," he said ahead of the ceremony. "All the support we've had in our lives that helped us get to this point, it's on us to help a child get it, too."

Gathers knows how much adults influence a child's future from personal experience, but the influences on him weren't positive.

"Growing up on Intervale Street [in Dorchester] was quite an experience," he said. "All of my role models at that time, all my uncles, older cousins and neighbors, were a part of the Intervale Street gang."

Gathers ended up following in their footsteps, he said, because he knew nothing else.

"We all are an inspiration to someone younger than us."

Kyle Gathers

He ended up spending a total of 10 years in prison for charges including drug dealing and an unarmed robbery and extortion. While he was in prison, his little brother, who had also gone down the same path, was killed.

Gathers knew that he needed a change. While behind bars, he read as many books as he could, earned his GED and wrote a poetry book about his life.

He got teased a bit by fellow prisoners who called him "Professor K," but he wasn't deterred.

"A lot of people in my situation believe that there is no room for change, that it's too late to even change," he said. "[But] there's nothing tough about being ignorant, nothing attractive about being stupid. Education has to come first in all aspects of life."

When he got out, he connected with College Bound Dorchester, a nonprofit that supports those who have served time or been in gangs by providing mentors that help people get into colleges and complete their higher education. That helped him get into BFI, a nonprofit college focused on skills training. Gathers got his certificate in heating, ventilation, air conditioning and refrigeration.

With that, he can get a job to support his family — he has a 10-year-old son — and launch the next phase of his life. Ultimately, he wants to own his own business and mentor kids growing up in the same kind of environment he did. He's already embarking on that effort back in Dorchester.

"I'm trying to start cookouts, to get kids in the community to come together and get to know each other, to stop them from being unnecessary enemies," he said. "When [people] see that I'm a part of that, who know me from being a cause of violence in the city, they'll really stand behind me because they know I'm serious."

Franklin police searching for missing Duke college student Michael Doherty, 20, was last seen around 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT

Franklin police are searching for a college student that they say went missing over the weekend.

Michael Doherty, 20, was last seen around 1:30 a.m. Sunday near Phyllis Lane in Franklin. He is a junior at Duke University and was already home for the summer, WBZ reported.

Doherty is a white male, approximately 5-feet-10 with brown hair and brown eyes. He was wearing a blue T-shirt with a Nike symbol, black pants and sneakers, police said.

Doherty "had been attending a gathering with some friends" at the time when he was last seen, police wrote in a statement on Monday, according to the Boston Globe. Police were interviewing those friends.

Officials were asking residents to check outside their homes, including any sheds or detached buildings.

Franklin police are looking for Michael Doherty, who has been missing since early Sunday morning. FRANKLIN POLICE

Police were using K-9 units and canoes in the search on Monday, which included a "swampy area" near Phyllis Lane, according to WBZ.

State environmental police also joined the search Monday morning, WBZ reported, because their officers are trained in searching through woods and swamps.

Anyone with information is advised to call the Franklin Police at 508-528-1212. Officials are warning residents that there will be an increased public safety presence in the area as other agencies join the investigation.

Drug Companies Fear Release of the New AloeCure

Big Pharma stands to lose billions as doctors' recommend drug-free "health cocktail" that adjusts and corrects your body's health conditions.

Drug company execs are nervous. That's because the greatest health advance in decades has hit the streets. And analysts expect it to put a huge crimp in "Big Pharma" profits.

So what's all the fuss about? It's about a new ingredient that's changing the lives of people who use it. Some call it "the greatest discovery since penicillin"! And others call it "a miracle!"

The name of the product is the AloeCure. It's not a drug. It's something completely different. And the product is available to anyone who wants it, at a reasonable price. But demands may force future prices to rise.

Top Doc Warns: Digestion Drugs Can Cripple You!

Company spokesperson, Dr. Liza Leal, a leading integrative health specialist out of Texas recommends AloeCure before she decides to prescribe any digestion drug. Especially after the FDA's stern warning about long-term use of drugs classified as proton pump inhibitors. In a nutshell, the FDA statement warned people should avoid taking these digestion drugs for longer than three 14-day treatment periods because there is an increased risk of bone fractures. Many people take them daily and for decades.

Dr. Leal should know. Many patients come to her with bone and joint complaints and she does everything she can to help them. One way for digestion sufferers to help avoid possible risk of tragic joint and bone problems caused by overuse of digestion drugs is to take the AloeCure.

Analysts expect the AloeCure to put a huge crimp in "Big Pharma" profits.

The secret to AloeCure's "health adjusting" formula is scientifically tested Acemannan, a polysaccharide extracted from Aloe Vera. But not the same aloe vera that mom used to apply to your cuts, scrapes and burns. This is a perfect strain of aloe that is organically grown in special Asian soil; under very strict conditions. AloeCure is so powerful it begins to benefit your health the instant you take it. It soothes intestinal discomfort and you can avoid the possibility of bone and health damage caused by overuse of digestion drugs. We all know how well aloe works externally on cuts, scrapes and burns. But did you know Acemannan has many of other health benefits?...

Helps The Immune System To Calm Inflammation

According to a leading aloe research, when correctly processed for digesting, the Aloe plant has a powerful component for regulating your immune system called Acemannan. So whether it's damage that is physical, bacterial, chemical or autoimmune; the natural plant helps the body stay healthy.

Rapid Acid And Heartburn Neutralizer

Aloe has proved to have an astonishing effect on users who suffer with digestion problems like bouts of acid reflux, heartburn, cramping, gas and constipation because it acts as a natural acid buffer and soothes the digestive system. But new studies prove it does a whole lot more.

Side-Step Heart Concerns

So you've been taking proton pump inhibitors (PPI's) for years and you feel just fine. In June of 2015 a major study shows that chronic PPI use increases the risk of heart attack in general population.

Save Your Kidney

National and local news outlets are reporting Kidney Failure linked to PPI's. Your Kidney extracts waste from blood, balance body fluids, form urine, and aid in other important functions of the body. Without it your body would be overrun by deadly toxins. Aloe helps your kidney function properly. Studies suggest, if you started taking aloe today; you'd see a big difference in the way you feel.

Guaranteed Results Or Double Your Money Back

Due to the incredible results people are reporting, AloeCure is being sold with an equally incredible guarantee.

"We can only offer this incredible guarantee because we are 100% certain this product will work for those who use it," Says Dr. Leal.

Here's how it works: Take the pill exactly as directed. You must see and feel remarkable improvements in your digestive health, your mental health, in your physical appearance, the amount inflammation you have throughout your body - even in your ability to fall asleep at night!

Otherwise, simply return the empty bottles with a short note about how you took the pills and followed the simple instructions and the company will send you...Double your money back!

Doctors call it "The greatest health discovery in decades!"

How To Get AloeCure

This is the official nationwide release of the new AloeCure pill in the United States. And so, the company is offering our readers up to 3 FREE bottles with their order.

This special give-away is available for the next 48-hours only. All you have to do is call TOLL-FREE 1-888-328-7497 and provide the operator with the Free Bottle Approval Code: Q147. The company will do the rest.

Important: Due to AloeCure's recent media exposure, phone lines are often busy. If you call and do not immediately get through, please be patient and call back. Those who miss the 48 hour deadline may lose out on this free bottle offer.

THESE STATEMENTS HAVE NOT BEEN EVALUATED BY THE FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION. THIS PRODUCT IS NOT INTENDED TO DIAGNOSE, TREAT, CURE OR PREVENT ANY DISEASE. INDIVIDUAL RESULTS MAY VARY. ALOECURE IS NOT A DRUG. IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY TAKING A PRESCRIPTION DRUG, YOU SHOULD CONSULT YOUR DOCTOR BEFORE USE. Massachusetts prisons are padding employee pockets at the expense of prisoner programs

Spending up by 18 percent even as prisoner population drops by 12 percent, report says.

ERIN TIERNAN
@ErinTiernan
erin.tiernan@metro.us

The number of prisoners in Massachusetts jails is down 12 percent from six years ago, but spending is still on the rise.

Since 2011, the number of people incarcerated in the state has dropped by almost 3,000 — from 23,850 to 20,961. State spending, however, is up by 18 percent, bringing spending to $1.2 billion last year, according to a report released Monday.

Spending in Massachusetts jails has jumped so much that the state now spends more on corrections than it does on higher education.

Prison populations in Massachusetts are shrinking, but spending and recidivism are up. FILE

The report, by nonpartisan policy think tank MassINC, raises questions about state spending priorities as most of the spending increases have gone to salaries and hire more staff rather than to expand social services and anti-recidivism programs.

About two-thirds of all people incarcerated in Massachusetts will re-offend, according to the report, but instead of investing in programs for inmates, 84 percent of the increased spending went to hire more staff and for higher wages. Average salaries grew from $65,500 to $76,000 between 2011 and 2016.

In that period, spending on programs for inmates actually declined from 3 percent of the total Department of Corrections budget in 2011 to 2.7 percent in 2016.

"Strong evidence has emerged over the last decade demonstrating that behavioral health treatment, education and training, and re-entry supports can reduce recidivism. Throughout the country, administrators of correctional facilities have sought to increase access to these services. Numerous reviews of the criminal justice system have recommended this course of action in Massachusetts, but progress has been slow," report authors Ben Forman and Michael Widner wrote in the report.

Fifth victim in Lynnway Auto Auction crash dies

A fifth person has died from injuries following a crash at a Billerica auto auction earlier this month when an SUV drove into a crowd of people and crashed into a wall.

Ruben Espallat, 55, of Methuen, died Saturday, 10 days after the May 3 crash at the Lynnway Auto Auction, Middlesex County District Attorney Marian Ryan said in a statement. The crash is under active investigation by the DA, state police and Billerica police.

The four other victims were 36-year-old Leeandra Aponte of Lowell, 50-year-old Elliott Rowlands Jr. of Buzzards Bay, and 48-year-old Brenda Lopez and 49-year-old Pantaleon Santos, both of Rhode Island.

The 76-year-old driver, who has not been charged, said the Jeep Cherokee he was driving was "defective" and accelerated on its own as he was driving it into the building to put on display for auction.

The driver's license

was suspended at the time of the crash, NECN reported.

Two people died at the scene of the crash, a third died at the hospital later that day and a fourth victim, Elliott Rowlands, succumbed to his injuries on May 10.

State police said that an investigation is ongoing.

"This remains an active and ongoing investigation being conducted by the Middlesex District Attorney's Office, the Billerica Police Department and the Massachusetts State Police CARS unit," the DA's office said.

State police said they do not suspect the crash was a terrorist act.

"At this point, there is no evidence or information to suggest the incident was caused by an intentional or terrorist act. All evidence and information at this time suggests an accidental cause," police said in a May 3 statement.

The Lynnway Auto Auction is a dealer consignment auction and has been in business since 1997. It moved to its current address in Billerica in 2011, according to the company's website. ERIN TIERNAN

US appeals court grills lawyers on Trump's revised travel ban

The three-judge 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals panel was the second such court to review over the past week Trump's directive banning people entering the United States from six Muslim-majority countries.

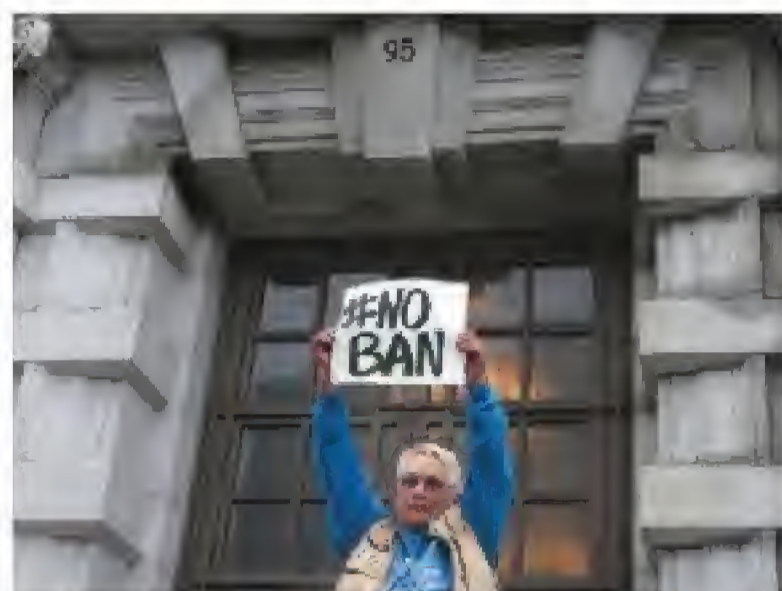

U.S. appeals court judges on Monday questioned the lawyer defending President Donald Trump's temporary travel ban about whether it discriminates against Muslims and pressed challengers to explain why the court should not defer to Trump's presidential powers to set the policy.

Opponents, including the state of Hawaii and civil rights groups, say that both Trump's first ban and the later revised ban discriminate against Muslims. The government argues that the text of the order does not mention any specific religion and is needed to protect the country against attacks.

In addressing the Justice Department at the hearing in Seattle, 9th Circuit Judge Richard Paez pointed out that many of Trump's statements about Muslims came "during the midst of a highly contentious [election] campaign," and asked if that should be taken into account when deciding how much weight they should be given in reviewing the travel ban's constitutionality.

Neal Katyal, an attorney representing the state of Hawaii which is opposing the ban, said the evidence goes beyond Trump's campaign statements.

"The government has not engaged in mass, dragnet exclusions in the past 50 years," Katyal said. "This is something new and unusual in which you're saying this whole class of people, some of whom are dangerous, we

Opponents of President Donald Trump's executive order imposing a temporary immigration ban on seven Muslim-majority nations protest outside a federal appeals court in San Francisco, California. GETTY IMAGES can ban them all."

The Justice Department argues Trump issued his order solely to protect national security.

Outside the Seattle courtroom a group of protesters gathered carrying signs with slogans like, "The ban is still racist," and "No ban, no wall."

Paez asked if an executive order detaining Japanese-Americans during the World War II would pass muster under the government's current logic.

Acting U.S. Solicitor General Jeffrey Wall, arguing on behalf of the Trump administration, said that the order from the 1940s, which is now viewed as a low point in U.S. civil rights history, would not be constitutional.

If Trump's executive order was the same as the one involving Japanese-Americans, Wall said: "I wouldn't be standing here, and the U.S. would not be defending it."

Judge Michael Daly Hawkins asked challengers to the ban about the wide latitude held by U.S. presidents to decide who can enter the country.

"Why shouldn't we be deferential to what the president says?" Hawkins said.

"That is the million dollar question," said Katyal. A reasonable person would see Trump's statements as evidence of discriminatory intent, Katyal said.

The panel, made up entirely of judges appointed by Democratic former President Bill Clinton, reviewed a Hawaii judge's ruling that blocked parts of the Republican president's revised executive order on travel.

The March order was Trump's second effort to craft travel restrictions. The first, issued on Jan. 27, led to chaos and protests at airports before it was blocked by courts. The second order was intended to overcome the legal problems posed by the original ban, but it was also suspended by judges before it could take effect on March 16.

U.S. District Judge Derrick Watson in Hawaii blocked 90-day entry restrictions on people from Libya, Iran, Somalia, Sudan, Syria and Yemen, as well as part of the order that suspended entry of refugee applicants for 120 days.

As part of that ruling, Watson cited Trump's campaign statements on Muslims as evidence that his executive order was discriminatory.

The 9th Circuit previously blocked Trump's first executive order.

Last week the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Virginia reviewed a Maryland judge's ruling that blocked the 90-day entry restrictions. That court is largely made up of Democrats, and the judges' questioning appeared to break along partisan lines. A ruling has not yet been released.

A student-loan repayment checklist

NerdWallet is a personal finance website.

The six-month grace period on your student loans after graduation will go faster than you think. Prepare for the day with this student-loan checklist:

Apply for income-driven repayment

Income-driven repayment can make your monthly student-loan bill more affordable. If you qualify, it'll cap your payments at a percentage of your income and extend your loan term to 20 or 25 years. And if you're still on the postgrad job hunt, you may not have to pay anything right away.

Plus, if you're under an income-driven repayment plan and qualify for Public Service Loan Forgiveness, you can save even more money: After you make qualified payments for 10 years, the remaining balance on your loans will be discharged tax-free.

You'll need to reapply each year to stay on your plan, so set a reminder one month beforehand to make sure you don't miss the deadline.

There are plenty of ways to make student debt less of a hassle. ISTOCK

Sign up for auto-pay

Many student loan servicers will knock 0.25 percentage point off your interest rate if you sign up for auto-pay, and it'll keep you from missing payments. Plus, if you set it to withdraw more than your monthly payment from your bank account, you can pay off your debt faster. Just check that those extra dollars are going toward your principal balance to maximize savings.

Look into refinancing

You can refinance your student loans with another lender to get a lower interest rate. It's usually best to refinance only private loans so you don't lose any federal borrower protections, like income-driven repayment or forgiveness programs. To qualify, you'll need to have a credit score above 650, a steady source of income and a low debt-to-income ratio.

If your credit score is on the low side, focus on building it by keeping credit card balances at or below 30 percent of your line of credit and paying your bills on time.

Let's talk about the trailer for Kylie Jenner's new show

Kylie Jenner, a so-called human woman who moonlights as a fluorescent wig monger, has a new show coming out on E! Because, as I keep telling you guys, the apocalypse is nigh and nothing matters anymore. Now, the trailer for "Life of Kylie" has been released, and it's just as terrifying as you think.

Here's a rare image of Kylie in the wild, wearing a dur-ag for some reason.
ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

The "docuseries," which E! calls "highly anticipated" appears to be a mash up of horror and reality television. It's a real accomplishment, especially since those two things haven't really been so seamlessly blended since "Blair Witch Project."

"I do feel pressured to not let anybody down," she continues. "I am not totally innocent because I am keeping up this lifestyle. I can't do this forever." OK!

The candid glimpses of her life seem overly scripted. It looks like it's the youngest Jenner's first time petting a wig, or getting out of a car, for example. I guess what I'm saying is that my theory is that Kylie Jenner is an alien creature inside the husk of a human and she's trying to convince us otherwise. Frankly, I am of the opinion that she is doing a really poor job.

Sexy Harry Styles sexily talks about his sexy sexuality

Confession: I am a 29-year-old woman. Things that interest me include: bottles of Pinot Noir that are priced $15 and under; the various stylings of Blanche Devereaux from "Golden Girls"; and an old dude that you may know named Michael Fassbender. Boy bands and the British children who populate them are of little to no interest to me.

But there's something about this Harry Styles dude, man. I feel like he just gets me.

His latest swoonworthy offense? He says he has nothing to hide:

According to E!, the 23-year-old has never felt like he's needed to define his sexuality. There's nothing like a maybe-pansexual dude to get the ol' engine revved up. "Being in a creative field, it's important to be progressive," he said in an interview with Bizarre's Dan Wootton. "I don't feel like [my sexual orientation] is something I've ever felt like I have to explain about myself." Yes! I mean, he's reportedly dating a woman, Tess Ward, but I love that he thinks he's so sexually free.

Unfortunately, my imagined romance with Styles would be short-lived, because he doesn't really imbibe in the sweet caress of booze. "It's just not for me ... I'm not straight-edge or anything ... but I like knowing I'm not going to be stressing about having to do something the next day." Oh, well.

Jenna Dewan Tatum dishes on dating Justin Timberlake

Jenna Dewan Tatum is an actress and dancer who has admitted her now-husband Channing Tatum seduced her with the help of Uggs and a sombrero. Justin Timberlake is a singer who took "NSYNC's split very personally. Apparently, these two conventionally attractive people dated. And now, Dewan Tatum is reluctantly dishing about it.

On an episode of "Watch What Happens Live," the 36-year-old admitted that she briefly dated Timberlake after he broke up with Britney Spears. "We dated! Not that long. We were like, friends that then dated and we're just really good friends now." But to be clear, this wasn't a rebound fling or anything. "I was not the rebound! I was very clear not to be [a rebound]." The two met when Dewan Tatum worked as a backup dancer on his tour.

I mean, Dewan Tatum is definitely Timberlake's type: athletic, pretty, very defined chin area. Look at Jessica Biel and tell me otherwise.

Anyway, everything worked out. Dewan Tatum is now married to Channing Tatum! Timberlake is married to Jessica Biel! And Britney, well: She's doing the best of all. She's suspended in some sort of permanent adolescence and has a hot 23-year-old boyfriend. Talk about hashtag goals.

Derek Jeter is woefully unprepared for fatherhood

Derek Jeter doesn't know a damn thing about fatherhood.

A few months ago, Hannah Jeter — formerly of Sports Illustrated Swimsuit fame — announced on The Player's Tribune she and Derek were expecting a daughter. And on Sunday, the couple stepped out for a ceremony to retire Derek's jersey number at the Yankee Stadium in the Bronx. When a reporter asked whether Derek was ready for the challenges of being a dad in the press conference afterward, the father-to-be laughed (because fatherhood is a joke, get it?) and gave a forceful "No!"

Then he explained. Or, well, he tried to. "You know, I prided myself in my career to be prepared at all games. Any time I'm unprepared, it makes me uncomfortable," he admitted. "I'm unprepared. From everything people have told me, just do it and see what happens. People can give you advice but until you're in it, you never really know what to expect."

Good luck with that one, Hannah.

Derek Jeter isn't so sure about this whole fatherhood thing.

Cary Elwes to celebrate 30 years of 'Princess Bride' in Boston

As you wish.

MATT JULI
@MetroBOS
letters@metro.us

It may be hard to believe, but Rob Reiner's classic adventure comedy "The Princess Bride" celebrates its 30th anniversary this year. In honor of the milestone, the Man in Black, aka actor Cary Elwes, is hitting the road for a special Q&A and movie screening tour, which stops at the Wilbur Theatre on Friday night.

Although "The Princess Bride" wasn't exactly a hit when it first swashbuckled its way into theaters in 1987, the fantasy flick starring Elwes, Robin Wright, Mandy Patinkin, Christopher Guest and Billy Crystal has turned into a cult phenomenon over the years. Fans just can't seem to get enough of this quirky family film and its endlessly quotable moments.

"I'm mystified by it,"

Relive the magic of "The Princess Bride" at the Wilbur Theatre. 20TH CENTURY FOX

Elwes says of the movie's continued success. "If I knew, I'd guess we'd all make another film. It's a beautiful thing!"

Looking back on the experience, the 54-year-old British star is honored to have worked with such wonderful cast mates, like the towering, "Eighth wonder of the world" Andre the Giant. But his favorite part was probably traveling around the picturesque European countryside and pitching tents with

"The Princess Bride" crew members.

While dueling with Patinkin's Inigo Montoya was one of the film's biggest highlights, the man behind the always-loyal Westley found the silver screen swordplay a bit difficult to master.

"The fencing was hard," Elwes admits. "I just worked with [Patinkin] again in Spain. He's a lovely man."

Although he doesn't plan on throwing down with Patinkin or a pro wrestler like Andre again any time soon, fighting seems to be in Elwes' DNA. While working endary Brockton-born boxer Rocky Marciano.

"I don't know [why he called me that], I think it was just based on his love of Rocky Marciano," Elwes says. "I did box for a while with Ray 'Boom Boom' Mancini."

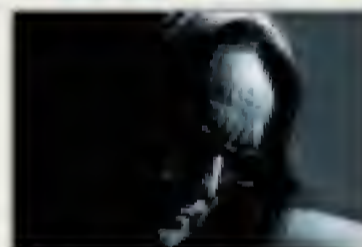

As for his upcoming trip to Boston, the veteran actor is excited to visit the city after so many years. Elwes got a taste of the Back Bay area and other parts of town while visiting his older brother Damian during his stint at Harvard University.

"I love Boston," Elwes says. "I have a great fondness for it."

In a town of foodies, you'd be hard-pressed to find one with as diverse and wide-reaching an influence as Kathy Sidell.

The Metropolitan Restaurant Group's president and founder boasts an impressive portfolio, including a degree from Columbia Film School which led to a founding partnership at Chelsea Pictures, as well as work on the acclaimed documentary "Fast, Cheap, & Out of Control."

Sidell has also been a food contributor to the Boston Herald, and wrote the 2012 book "When I MET Food: Living the American Restaurant Dream." Ahead, the prolific restaurateur dishes on her favorite spots around Boston.

Best late night meal?

Gourmet Dumpling House for the pork and leek dumpling or the spicy flounder pot; Peach Farm for heartier main dishes — the fried pork chops are very good, and the pork belly is amazing. 4 Tyler St., peachfarmboston.com; 55 Beach St., gourmetchinahouse.com

Best meal under $5?

Galleria Umberto. Be prepared to stand in line to get a baseball-sized arancini for $3.25, or a slice of the Sicilian squares for a couple bucks each. 289 Hanover St.

Best hidden foodie gem?

Cafe Sushi is one of those places that has managed to stay under the radar. It's modest, but the fish is likely the freshest in the city. Order off of their daily blackboard menu, which has the most unusual and epic sashimi. 1105 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, cafesushicambridge.com

Best place to dine alone?

Coppa in the South End. Sit at the small bar and watch those crazy good Italian grinders sliced to order on their old-school Berkel. 253 Shawmut Ave., coppaboston.com

Go-to date spot?

The room at Tiger Mama really transports you — it's super fun and sexy, and makes you feel like you're in the tropics on a hot summer night. The Taiwan On is killer, and the Bun Cha Hanoi brings all the flavors of Southeast Asia to life.

1363 Boylston St., tigermama-boston.com

Best place to catch up with friends?

The Bristol Lounge is my go-to meeting place. They are very accommodating, and the couches are super comfortable. The set up of the room allows for just the right amount of privacy. 200 Boylston St., fourseasons.com/boston/dining

Most Instagrammable meal in town?

I'd like to think it's Saltie Girl's Lobster and Waffles. For some reason people can't get over the twist on the old-time classic. 281 Dartmouth St., saltiegirl.com

Spot you recommend for out-of-towners?

Neptune Oyster. It's the quintessential New England seafood experience. 63 Salem St., neptuneoyster.com

There's nothing quite like summer in the city of Boston. Trade in the cramped gyms and overpriced studios for some fresh air with these diverse outdoor fitness classes.

Seaport Sweat

If your bank account is looking pretty sparse, fear not: Seaport Sweat is back in action with 153 free classes on Seaport Common, next to District Hall. Running from June 1 through Sept. 29, the programming ranges from boot camps and yoga to boxing and local favorites like Kick It by Eliza. Keep your eyes open for their partnership with Equinox for a monthly master class. Free, bostonseaport.xyz

Broncore Fitness Summer Series Bootcamp

Get your butt kicked by Bron Volney, known for his cult favorite HIIT classes with battle ropes and thumping beats. The 45-minute classes include short bouts of high intensity cardio followed by even shorter rest periods. Classes are on City Hall Plaza at Government Center, Tuesday evenings at 6 p.m. from May 30 to Aug. 22. $15/class, $55/4-pack, broncorefitness.com

Exhale Battery Wharf Outdoor Yoga

If it's all about location, then Exhale Battery Wharf has it covered: A prime spot on the Harborwalk next to the Battery Wharf Hotel, where they host seven outdoor yoga classes a week from June to September. Wednesdays at 7 a.m., you can catch B/Spoke director of talent and senior lead instructor Aly Raymer taking charge. Mats are complimentary. $25, or free for Exhale members, exhalespa.com

BollyX, Fabulously Fit with Katie, and more at Faneuil Hall Marketplace

Instead of taking up residence on the couch

after work, pick up a healthy habit on Faneuil Hall Marketplace. They won't judge you for popping into one of the nearby watering holes after, either. Visit the website for a complete list. Free, faneuil-hallmarketplace.com

Endurance Pilates in the Park

Glow in the (almost) dark with a 45-minute pilates class at dusk in Blackstone Park, brought to you by the team at Endurance. Dates are June 21, July 12, and Aug. 2, all at 8 p.m. Don't forget to bring your own mat, but they'll provide the glow sticks. Free, endurancepilatesandyoga.com

Envoy Hotel Rooftop Yoga

Working out is always better with a view. Head to the popular Lookout Rooftop and Bar at the Envoy for 60-minute yoga classes on the last Sunday of June, July and August. And no, you don't have to be a hotel guest to attend. Attendees must BYOM (bring your own mat). Free, outlookkitchenandbar.com

Ali Baldassare's MSL Pilates Bootcamp

The MSL stands for "Move. Sweat. Love." — and that's just what the Boston fitness guru is known for. Check out her class for a fusion of creative cardio drills, classical pilates and innovative core exercises. Classes take place on the Rose Kennedy Greenway at the North End every other Monday from June through September at 6:15-7:15 p.m. Free, $5 suggested donation, alibaldassare.com

Kick It by Eliza and Yoga on the Green at the Street

BollyX, Fabulously Fit with Katie and more outdoor fitness classes fill the Faneuil Hall Marketplace this summer. PROVIDED

Head to The Street at Chestnut Hill every Tuesday at 7 p.m. from June 6 to Sept. 26 to sweat it out in this high energy cardio kickboxing class, known for its heavy duty following throughout Boston. To get your zen on, The Street will also host Yoga on The Green every Sunday morning at 10 a.m. from June 4 to Oct. 1. And with Shake Shack just around the corner, we know where you'll be after. Free, thetreechestnuthill.com

Bootys for the Battle

It's one night only, but it's worth it: The 50-minute fitness class is taught by Kelly Brabants, the brain child behind the ever popular Booty by Brabants fitness class and clothing line. The third annual fundraiser, which raises money for Metastatic Breast Cancer research, will be on Saturday, June 24 at 12:30 p.m. at the Seaport Hotel & World Trade Center. $30 early bird, $40 day of, bootysforthebattle17.eventbrite.com

The C's have the best odds of landing the No. 1 pick tonight, but they aren't good odds.

MATT BURKE
@burke_metro
matt.burke@metro.us

The odds say that Celtics fans are going to be disappointed again on Tuesday night.

Every 10 years, the C's are in position to draft a once-in-a-generation player, but the lottery balls (more specifically, the computers) don't fall their way.

In 1997, the Celtics had the best odds (27.51 percent of being able to draft Tim Duncan). They wound up with the third overall pick. In 2007, the Celtics had the second best odds of nabbing the No. 1 overall pick (19.9 percent) and the second best odds of landing the second overall pick (18.8 percent) – which turned out to be Kevin Durant. They wound up with the fifth overall pick.

Thanks to the pillaging of the Brooklyn Nets four years ago – in a trade that shipped Paul Pierce and Kevin Garnett out of Boston in exchange for a pu pu platter of draft picks – the Celtics own the best odds of any NBA team to get the top overall pick Tuesday (8:30 p.m., ESPN).

It's important to remember that the C's have the "best" odds and not "good" odds of "winning the lottery." They have a 25 percent chance of nabbing the No. 1 pick, a 21.5 percent chance of landing the second overall pick, a 17.8 percent chance

THE CELTICS HAVE A
35.7 PERCENT CHANCE
OF FALLING TO NO. 4

of landing the No. 3 pick and a 35.7 percent chance of getting the No. 4 pick. In other words, the odds are better of them getting the 4 pick than they are of them getting the top pick.

The Suns have the second best odds at the No. 1 pick (19.9 percent) and the Lakers have the third best odds at the No. 1 pick (15.6). All 14 teams in the lotto have a chance at the top pick (Miami has the worst odds at 0.5 percent). The Celtics can do no worse than pick No. 4.

For the hell of it, Metro played Tankathon.com's NBA draft lottery simulator on Monday. On the first try, Philly jumped up to No. 1 and the Celtics fell to No. 4. On the second try, the Celtics "won" the lottery and stayed at No. 1. On the third try, the Celtics again fell to No. 4.

The players

Oh ya, the players.

After all this computer mumbo jumbo shakes out, the Celtics will be turning their attention to the actual NBA Draft, which takes place on June 22 in Brooklyn (wow, that's gotta sting, Nets fans).

In Metro's latest NBA Mock Draft, we have the Celtics taking Washington point guard Markelle Fultz No. 1 overall. UCLA guard Lonzo Ball goes to the Lakers, Kansas swingman Josh Jackson goes to the Suns and NC State point guard Dennis Smith goes to the 76ers at No. 4. Duke small forward Jayson Tatum and Kentucky point guard De'Aaron Fox are also players who could crack the top four.

FANTASY BASEBALL: WHEN TO GO AGAINST THE GRAIN

Kyle Bishop is a lead MLB columnist at RotoBaller.com. His articles and Fantasy Baseball Rankings are your secret weapon for winning fantasy leagues.

As we move deeper into the season, it can be instructive to check out transaction trends across all leagues. Today, we'll look at a pair of hitters and pitchers on both sides of the equation. Should you follow the wisdom of the crowds, or go against the grain? Let's find out.

MOST ADDED

Yonder Alonso, 1B, Oakland Athletics

Alonso raked in spring training, but most fantasy owners didn't bat an eye. At this point, most people know that spring stats are fairly weak predictors of regular season performance. Sometimes, though, they're the result of a tangible change in approach. That's the case with Alonso, who in his age-30 season is finally tapping into his power. Given how underwhelming he'd been previously — his 12 home runs this season represent both a career high and equal his prior two seasons' total combined — it was easy to forget that he was once a top prospect. If he continues elevating the ball, he's a good bet to keep producing. Buy.

A.J. Griffin, SP, Texas Rangers

Yonder Alonso should continue to rake. GETTY IMAGES

After breaking out in 2013, Griffin missed the next two seasons with arm problems. In his return last season, the veteran's performance was uninspiring. Thanks largely to an inability to keep the ball in the yard, Griffin posted a 5.07 ERA and 1.36 WHIP in 119 innings. He's off to a much better start this year, with a 2.45 ERA and 0.85 WHIP through six turns. Home runs have still been an issue, though, and he's become even more extreme in his fly-ball tendencies. When his .200 BABIP inevitably rises, things could get ugly in a hurry. Sell.

MOST DROPPED

Steven Souza, OF, Tampa Bay Rays

Souza has cooled after a blistering start, and combined with him missing four games with a hand injury last week, that was enough to convince many fantasy owners to jump ship. A deeper look provides ammunition for both sides of the argument. Souza has cut down on whiffs, but he's also making authoritative contact less often. He's hitting a lot of line drives, but not elevating the ball as much as usual. His walks are up, but he's also benefiting from a .372 BABIP. When in doubt, defer to previous performance. Souza's hasn't been anything to write home about. Sell.

Brandon McCarthy, SP, Los Angeles Dodgers

One of the game's more cerebral players, McCarthy's body hasn't kept up with his mind. He's pitched more than 170 innings just once in his career, and made only 13 starts combined in 2015 and 2016. He got off to a great start this season, but finds himself dealing with injury yet again as he's currently on the shelf with shoulder trouble. McCarthy is an extremely high-maintenance fantasy asset, and his production doesn't justify the hassle. Sell.

DIVORCE SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION AND MAILING

Docket No. NO17D0237DR

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

THE TRIAL COURT

PROBATE AND FAMILY COURT

Lontrell Jones vs. James Jones

To the Defendant:

Norfolk Probate and Family Court

35 Shawmut Road, Canton, MA 02021

The Plaintiff has filed a Complaint for Divorce requesting that the Court grant a divorce for irretrievable breakdown. The Complaint is on file at the Court.

An Automatic Restraining Order has been entered in this matter preventing you from taking any action which would negatively impact the current financial status of either party. SEE Supplemental Probate Court Rule 411.

You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon: Lontrell Jones, 15 Holbrook Ave., Braintree, MA 02184 your answer, if any, on or before 07/20/2017. If you fail to do so, the court will proceed to the hearing and adjudication of this action. You are also required to file a copy of your answer, if any, in the office of the Register of this Court.

WITNESS, Hon. John D Casey, First Justice of this Court.

Aries Personal improvements will make you feel like a million bucks, as long as you make alterations based on your needs, not on someone else's directives.

Taurus Set up a meeting or call on an expert if it will help you get off the fence and make a decision regarding a financial, professional or health matter.

Gemini Emotional interference can lead to poor choices. Know what you are taking on before you say yes. An unexpected change will force you to rethink your next move.

Cancer Put your unique touch on whatever you do. Don't overspend or create complications that will make it difficult to finish what you start. Simplicity is your best bet.

Leo Listen to your peers or whoever is in charge in order to make better choices regarding how to move forward without interference. Stay within set boundaries.

Virgo Educational pursuits and networking will all play a role in helping you get ahead. You'll face someone looking for a fight. Don't engage in petty disputes.

Libra Keep a steady pace moving in a direction that holds your interest and inspires you to live, learn and forge into the future with enthusiasm. Don't look back.

Scorpio Keep your emotions in check. Don't let anyone take advantage of you or manipulate you into taking on something you don't want to do.

Sagittarius Listen carefully. Refuse to let anyone lead you astray. Call the shots and question anything that sounds fishy. Personal and physical improvements are favored.

Capricorn Rely on how you handled unpredictable situations in the past to help you deal with confusion and concerns you face in the present. Don't give in to peer pressure.

Aquarius Don't let confusion set in when trying to figure out what to do next. If you ask someone you trust to offer his or her expertise and knowledge, you'll be triumphant.

Pisces Ask for help and call in favors. Listen to good advice and avoid senseless arguments. Take control and turn any negative you face into a positive. EUGENIA LAST
